Now that area stages are shutting down until the return of the snowbirds, Florida Studio Theatre's Summerfest Season should help keep Suncoast theatergoers from impaling themselves due to the lack of live drama. First up in the four-play series is The All Night Strut, returning to FST after a successful run back in 2000. The show is a cabaret-style performance of classic jazz 'n' blues from the 1930s and '40s, and features talent that knows what to do with old tunes: Director Dennis Courtney turned a similar trick with '60s British rock in the imaginatively titled British Invasion earlier this season. Zoot suits are heartily encouraged. June 13-July 1, 8 p.m. Tues.-Fri., 2 and 8 p.m. Sat., 3 and 8 p.m. Sun., 1241 N. Palm Ave., Sarasota, $19-$34, 366-9000 or fst2000.org.
